Aberdeen, 16th September 2014

Siccar Point Energy, the newly established E&P company led by Jonathan Roger, has moved quickly to announce its first new board member since the company's launch on 1st September. Dr. Nick Cooper, Executive Director and CEO of Ophir Energy, the FTSE 250 listed Oil & Gas Exploration Company, joins the board of Siccar Point Energy with immediate effect, as a Non-Executive Director.

"It is a pleasure to have someone of Nick's calibre joining the board of Siccar Point Energy", stated Jonathan Roger. "Nick's experience in building successful E&P companies, including those with private equity backing, will be hugely valuable as we build Siccar Point Energy. With the focus of our E&P business being the North Sea, we need likeminded professionals who share our vision for this sector. Nick complements and adds to our existing board's strengths in a number of areas."

Dr. Nick Cooper commented "It is a pleasure to be joining the board of Siccar Point Energy at this early stage of what is a very exciting business venture. I have been greatly impressed with what Jonathan has achieved in his previous roles and with his vision for this new company. I am looking forward to working with him and the rest of the team."
